

Presenting in English for TV & Radio

Instructor: Professor Nemo Kim

Broadcaster and Journalist (KBS, CNN.com and Nikkei Asia Review) and former lecturer at the Asian Studies Department, SOAS, University of London & Korea University.

Nemo Kim was educated at the Univ. of Cambridge (International Relations) and the Univ. of London (English Literature & Drama).

Class Meetings: July to August, 2017

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course introduces major approaches to broadcasting in English at English-speaking media outlets in and outside of Korea. The aim of the course is to help students structure confident and concise English presentation in varied environments.

COURSE GRADING AND REQUIREMENTS:

1. Homework assignments – Viewings & readings 20%
 2. Attendance and participation 40% (If you merely attend classes and remain passive, you will not get a good grade. Even if you're shy and feel that you are weak when it comes to speaking English, try to speak up in class, as everyone's input is valuable.)
 3. Final Presentation on a topic of your choice (individual) 40%
- Topic to be discussed with the professor in Week 3

COURSE SCHEDULE

1. General Lecture on Broadcasting
2. Overall Techniques. (using microphones, using your voice, building confidence)
3. Common Mistakes
4. Group Practice 1
5. Group Practice 2.
6. Group Practice 3.
7. Individual Clinic 1
8. Individual Clinic 2

CLASS MATERIAL

To be provided by the Instructor.